

Senior Consultant

• Agricultural inputs • Equity opportunity

We are looking for a talented senior consultant who enjoys the agribusiness market but would prefer to work in a small business, preferably one they own.

You will have an excellent understanding of the agricultural inputs market with experience at a senior management level. This might be in crop protection, animal health, fertilisers or machinery.

You will have a strategic outlook, be very capable and a fast learner. Specific experience in market analysis, market research, strategic planning and/or staff recruiting would be particularly valuable. Good computer skills are mandatory.

Obviously you will be an independent self-starter who can identify and capture business opportunities.

The position will attract a competitive salary plus incentive, with the option of acquiring equity in the company if compatible. The position is located in Sydney.

If you think this is worth exploring call David Leyonhjelm for a confidential discussion.
